

DON'T SPREAD GERMS.

Wash
Your Hands.

Because unclean hands spread disease, the Wisconsin Food Code requires persons engaged in food preparation shall maintain a high degree of personal cleanliness and shall observe good hygienic practices during all working periods. Persons engaged in food preparation shall wash their hands before beginning work, after using toilet facilities, eating, smoking or engaging in other activities that may contaminate the hands.